State of Ministry.

Many people have asked me what does “ministry” look like since the pandemic? I get questions like what have you done, and what have you been forced to do differently? My response has always been: I haven’t done a lot and I have done a lot. You are probably saying to yourself what is he talking about! Being a missionary sent out from a local church and endorsed by the churches of the American Baptist Association, I have an obligation to show accountability for the work being done here, and I am in complete agreement with that. Unfortunately, the great majority of accountability is measured by quantifiable results. Results such as outreach activities, how many doors have I knocked on, how many community events has the church taken part in and what activities and outreach is planned in the future. Because of the pandemic, these quantifiable results are very low and it makes it very difficult to write glowing, positive newsletters with lots of activity. This is where the 1st part to my response of “I haven’t done much” comes from. The very nature of church planting involves high social interaction, and that has been very difficult to do.

The pandemic has forced me to look at things in a different light. A few months into the pandemic after much prayer, God spoke to my heart and said to focus on the people He has placed in front of me. This is where the 2nd half of my response of “I have done a lot” comes from. I have spent countless hours mentoring, teaching, and pouring into the people God has placed in front of me. In particular, the 4-6 teens who are always at our house. We have shared so many good and bad times over the last year together and through it all I have seen tremendous spiritual growth and understanding in all of them. To put that into a quantifiable statement would require a very lengthy written summary for each one of them.

Please continue to pray for these teens. They already have enough stress in their lives and now they are at that awkward time between their junior and senior year in high school where they are having to make decision for themselves and figure out their place in society. Questions such as what do I want to do with the rest of my life? Do I go to college or find a trade....

Please pray for me also, as I am meeting with a group of friends who own their own businesses. The goal of the meeting is to get interested kids involved in the business planning and operations of their businesses to teach them how to become successful entrepreneurs, and gain potential high school or college credit. I personally think this will help more kids in the transition period and give them a goal and directions.

God has ordained the times and seasons for everything, and I for one am optimistic this pandemic season is starting to come to a close. If and when more social interactions are permitted, I will be the 1st to take full advantage of it!
