Sunday Morning 8

One year ago, America was entering the early days of the Corona virus pandemic. “Lockdown” and “social distancing” were the new buzz words. Life as we knew it was dramatically changing forever. I find it ironic that this happened around early spring time. Spring has always been synonymous with change, new life, and revival. What a year it has been. To say there have been many ministry challenges would be an understatement! I have been doing a lot of praying and soul searching the last few weeks, and I can say, I am ready for the new beginning, for new life. Particularly in the ministry of Pathway Baptist. In all honesty, I have been in survival mode over the last year. I have repented for that attitude and God has been gracious enough to forgive me. I am resolved to learn from the mistakes I have made, be an overcomer through Christ and show others there IS hope, not just to survive, but thrive.

For all the negative that is portrayed about Colorado: Legal marijuana, California east, gay rights, mass shootings, major protests and riots, and much more, we are in surprisingly good shape when it comes to all things pandemic. Businesses are slowly opening back up and the kids just started in person learning again last week. Hopefully, this will allow me to get back out into the community and be able to share my faith in Jesus Christ with people who have been like me and are ready for a new life and beginning but just don’t know how, or more importantly WHO!

Over the next few week, I will be praying, studying, thinking and strategizing about how to most effectively move forward and Spring into action. Please lift my family up in your prayers as we united in this effort.

Through all the adversity we have faced this past year, I am pleasantly surprised and encouraged by the attitude and hunger for God’s word I have seen in the teens we have coming every week.

We even have a new teen attending regularly now. My son’s girlfriend! We have been praying for her for some time now that she would start attending services. She spends alternate weekends with her mom and dad. Because of this she has never been able to come to services. Well, she got her license, bought herself a car, and now she can drive herself, and she has not missed a service since!

During this past Sunday’s prayer and share time, Zalix expressed how happy he was to be back. He had been in Indiana the week prior picking up his dad’s ashes to bring back to Colorado. He said it just didn’t feel right not going to church the past Sunday.

We started our study on Revelation about 4 weeks ago and they are loving it! They come every week with a ton of questions for me, and an anticipation of what they are going to learn about this week. Also, at the conclusion of every service, we have started watching “The Chosen.” Between services and the movie series, services may last well over an hour and a half. I honestly expected them to become bored or restless, but to my surprise they want to hang around and talk and ask questions afterwards!

Please pray for them to keep the zeal they have for God and His word and that I can nurture and develop them on their spiritual journey.
