Spring time in the Rockies

We are once again approaching another spring season on the front range. The pace of life seems to pick up a bit around this time of year. The last major snow has fallen.....Hopefully! The days are becoming longer and warmer and people are busy doing outside activities. This also means high school graduations and summertime will be here very soon. We are busy planning what the next several months will look like for ministry here. As of right now My son and one other teen are the only ones leaving to go to college. My son has decided to continue his academic and athletic career by attending Fullerton College in California. The other young man will be attending a trade school in Laramie Wyoming. As I said in my last letter, I have been busy helping find new church homes for the ones leaving but I have also been busy reinforcing the idea that just because some will be leaving is not an excuse for them to quit attending. We have talked about what it means to be loyal to Christ and His Church no matter who is or is not attending. So far, it seems they are committed but they have already stated it is going to feel a little weird. My response to them was "we are all already a little weird, so lets just be weird together!" Please pray for this group. For the ones leaving, that they will make friends with fellow believers and get plugged into and serve in some capacity in their new locations and for those remaining that they will continue to grow and be guided by the Holy Spirit into their next adventure in life.

As some of you may have heard, we are looking to buy another house. We will be staying in this area. We are just looking for a house that better suits our needs. Mainly, a house with a dedicated office (me and my wife both work from home) and an extra bedroom/office. We also are looking for a house that has a large open basement or common room. This will allow us to have more room for church growth. We thought we had found the perfect house a few weeks ago. It had all the office space we needed and a huge open basement. As a bonus, it backed up to the side of a city park. Our thoughts were we could put up a large tent in our backyard/the park and hold services outside weather permitting, or in the basement. God had other ideas! We put a bid on the house, but another couple put in a cash offer 150K OVER the list price of the home. We do not have to move so we are trusting God will open the right doors and give us the perfect house in His timing and will.

Please pray for our neighbors Stephen and Kelsie. We have had many conversations with them over that last few week about God and Church. Stephen is an electrician and Kelsie is a stay-at-home mom. He tore his ACL a few weeks ago and now needs surgery. He has been off work and is filing for workers comp and unemployment. We have given them food and cooked meals for them on several occasions. This has allowed us to become better friends with them and open up our conversations to more serious matters.
